

the BRAT PACK

almost TOTALLY 80s MUSIC!

"The Brat Pack kept kids and grandparents buzzing until the end of the reception. Our wedding party knew the words to every song, and a spontaneous dance contest broke out. We're all set for undying love now!"

Rob and Anne Budach

"I've got just one word to describe Brat Pack.... HUGE! HUGE crowds, HUGE bar sales, HUGE fun. Their numbers were off the chart for a live band at my establishment. A definite re-book!"

The Brat Pack

Ask yourself one question: “What decade do I wish had never ended?” Alright, two: “What band relives that delightful time so convincingly that I can escape into it weekend after weekend and gaze at their poster Monday through Thursday just to keep the magic alive?”

For a totally tubular, upbeat show your guests will never forget, for entertainment with a capital “wow”, you have no choice but to call the Brat Pack. Whatever the event, your crowd will be dancing on the ceiling, singing along in colorful headgear (provided!), and tipping the bartenders all night long.

Since 1996, the Brat Pack has been rocking clubs, parties, weddings, and even themselves. They play only the songs people love—hours and hours of the crazy, wild, party music that conjures up big hair, padded shoulders, Mister T, and Care Bears. Fronted by the fabulously acid-washed Tommy Tubular, this five-piece (sixteen-piece if you count eighties ladies’ cameos) delivers the smash hits audiences hope for when they cry “I want my MTV!” No slugs themselves, Tommy’s wacky sidekicks keep him on his toes and the gals up front blushing. A top-flight crew mans the supercharged 1.21 gigawatt sound system and 80s light show to make the action larger than life. So hop into the DeLorean and hold onto your parachute pants—there’s not a dull moment in their set. As thousands of fans can attest, a Brat Pack show is more than a performance, it’s a party. To psych up audiences, this group will stop at nothing—they have costumes, 80s fashion, choreography (good and terrible), props, bits from 80s movies, and an unbreakable will. Your friends/family/patrons can’t help but cheer along to Mickey, wave 99 red balloons, and do the Safety Dance. And remember—everyone gets lei’d at a Brat Pack show!

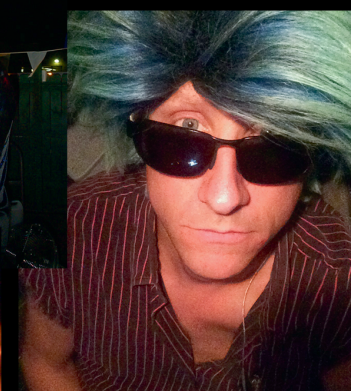

Never again will you wonder, “Where’s the beef?” just “How soon can I get them here?” No matter how long the drive (the Brat Pack loves to drive), when they pull up to the bumper, say your prayers and eat your vitamins—you’re going to need Punky Power to survive a night of Brat Pack’s high-energy hijinks.

Corporate and Special Events

Rock with You All Night. Brat Pack has played every kind of show from fundraisers to large weddings, private parties to corporate events, smoky bars to outdoor festivals. These dedicated career musicians take the business of fun very seriously and have developed versatility in the services they offer and a professional approach toward each engagement.

Your event coordinator can collaborate in advance with the Brat Pack. Thanks to their extensive song list and bag of tricks, sets can be tailored for your special occasion without losing an ounce of the fun and excitement. They rock out when you need it, let the love flow if love is the battlefield, ham it up so you can relax. In pursuit of your particular theme, even offbeat requests are welcome. The Brat Pack can be painted blue and stuffed into Smurf suits. They don’t even mind making their bass player dress as the Easter bunny, so consider no idea too outrageous!

Behind the scenes, the hardest working crew in show biz keeps things humming. The Brat Pack has partnered with one sound and light company for several years, resulting in an efficient operation that will appear effortless in your venue. Their state of the art equipment is regularly upgraded and maintained, and set-up time is remarkably quick given the size and complexity. Supplemental gear and services are accessed to meet the production needs of very large events. In addition to sound and light engineers, the Brat Pack employs a road crew who share the strong work ethic. And they can dance. This is a complete entertainment package!

Bars

If You Build It, They Will Come. The Brat Pack has been packing clubs all over the Midwest for years and leaving the customers to chant "I'll be back!" It's not unusual to discover, two hours before last call, that you've run out of beer or change, so keep a truck running. The crowd they draw will have a wild, fun, crazy time, but don't worry—just like an episode of the A-Team, while everybody gets totally rocked, in the end no one is really hurt. Except for whoever has to sweep up red balloons. And maybe the servers exhausted from the action and weighed down by tips. Recognizing the importance of its partnership with each club, the Brat Pack is not afraid to build a new room. Let them turn your bar into a little old place where we can get together, a love shack, baby.

Go go Gadget sound system! The band works with a crew and brings their own production, cutting down on the set-up and planning you need to do. If you prefer, they can incorporate house sound and lights. Their techs keep things running smoothly throughout the show, work well with club staff, and help enthusiastic patrons off the stage. The Brat Pack's enormous fan base knows their every move via email and an extravagant website, and members of their crack commando unit, The A-Team, spread the word about upcoming shows by distributing flyers in your area.

The Brat Pack will rock your crowd for hours—by the power of Greyskull! So go ahead. Fight for your right to party, and get them into your bar today.

Weddings

Dearly Beloved, We Are Gathered Here Today!

Planning a wedding can make you think you've fallen and can't get up. Questions about entertainment shouldn't distract from your big day—just call the Brat Pack, and you'll be saying "I love it when a plan comes together!" Don't be surprised to find flower girls and grandparents on the dance floor to the very end of your Brat Pack reception. With their endless selection of songs and great big bag of goodies, there's something for everyone. They'll have the kids bouncing with awesome dance hits like "We Got the Beat" and your new in-laws weeping for "Jack and Diane". Where else can you see Grandpa flirt with Madonna, that shy second cousin bust a move, and your own mother addicted to love? The Brat Pack cleans up well. And not only do they love to celebrate marriage, they want to help out. If the bachelor party gets the better of your best man or the dog eats your maid of honor's notes, the Brat Pack can even toast your blessed union in style! For this most triumphant occasion, give your loved ones an excellent adventure. You'll change history as they remember all the fun they had partying with a live band playing their favorite songs, the ones that will forever remind them of you.

They Just Wanna Have Fun!

Jesse Van Halen

Favorite 80s Band: The GoGos
Favorite 80s TV Show: Full House
Favorite 80s Toy: He Man and She Ra Action Playset

During his years as a robotic personal assistant and yes-man for Wham! and Debbie Gibson, Jesse Van Halen shed all his inhibitions and bought some shiny pants, and now he is the head-bangingest keyboard player alive. Don't try to stop him, even if he's making you dizzy, and whatever you do, don't touch the hat – it's his life support system! When he's not in the basement laboratory experimenting with Smurf genetics, this hyper-genius is kickin it with Jesse's girl.

Brendan Goes To Hollywood

Favorite 80s Band: Rambo
Favorite 80s TV Show: Rambo
Favorite 80s Toy: Rambo

When Brendan Goes to Hollywood was a much younger man, sweating magic tricks and expert breakdance stunts on the set of "CupTriX: The Movie" Josh of Seagulls liked the look. He said, "Hey Kid. You seem 'almost totally 80s'. What say you leave Hollywood, come fly with me, and melt the whole world's face off with your chilling skills and million dollar poses?" To which BGtH replied, "Gnarly. I don't know much about guitar, and I've never been East of the Rockies, but I'll try anything once and most things infinity times."

Lynn D Lauper

Favorite 80s Band: Pat Benatar
Favorite 80s TV Show: A-Team
Favorite 80s Toy: Rubik's Cube

This material girl was homeless during the super boring 90s when people forgot how to shake it. Philanthropist and Olympic athlete Alex in Chains was so sure Lauper's quick-change chameleon act would put the Brat Pack over the top that she woke her from her park bench and offered her the world. This butterfly-turned-caterpillar-turned-imitation-rock-legend-and-occasional-zombie has been walkin on sunshine ever since.

Diamond Dave

Favorite 80s Band: Wham
Favorite 80s TV Show: Small Wonder
Favorite 80s Toy: Thumbelina

Bass player, prize fighter, gymnast, prom king, award-winning software designer and photo editor, historian, triathlete, and sometimes cartoon character Diamond Dave only has to think a thought for it to come true. When the Brat Pack wasn't feeling well, we asked him to make us all better and, voila, we are all better. Bluebirds help him get dressed in the morning, and wherever he walks, rainbows follow. But please don't make him mad.

Josh of Seagulls

Favorite 80s Band: Kraftwerk
Favorite 80s TV Show: The Facts of Life
Favorite 80s Toy: He's not playin

A star of both stage and screen, Josh of Seagulls is more than just a pretty face and a big fat royalties check. When he's not jamming for the cameras in Hollywood, he's got a pocket protector full of surprises for the ladies. He may be the nerd of the group, but he'll take his revenge on the drums. He loves his mom and is currently working on building the perfect woman with his best friend, the Apple IIE.

Joe Bon Joey

Favorite 80s Band: Eddie Murphy
Favorite 80s TV Show: Revenge of the Ninja
Favorite 80s Toy: Dolph Lundgren

Just when it seemed the Brat Pack had lost its way, wandering into terrifying unknown decades, Joe Bon Joey swept in like a Master of the Universe to save us. Don't let his shy demeanor fool you: Joe Bon Joey is here to defend the 80s from out of shape and/or confusing futuristic enemies. In fact, he's the guy all those action heroes of the 80s turn to for help! Whenever Chuck Norris is feeling down, he cries on Bon Joey's shoulder. In his spare time, Joe walks Clint Eastwood's bunny and gives Stallone advice on girls. By the power of Grayskull, your Joe Bon Joey fist-bump is guaranteed to activate all sorts of gnarly powers, from Shape of Footloose to Form of Ice, Ice Baby!
